LOUISVILLE,
FOR PRESIDENT,
Millard Fillmore,
OF NEW YORK.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,
Andrew Jackson Donelson,
OF TENNESSEE.

THURSDAY, MAY 1, 1861.

157 The Daily Journal has much the largest circulation in the city and double circulation in the country of any other daily paper printed in Louisville; and the Weekly Journal has much more than double the circulation of all the other weekly papers in Louisville put together.

We had hoped that we should never again have occasion to devote any portion of our columns to an exposition of the causes of the fierce riots of "Bloody Monday." When all the occurrences of that day were first made known to us, we could hardly conceive of a newspaper which had been silent, we willingly abandoned further agitation of the subject. We have reluctantly resented it now for the protection of the best interests of our city, the Sag-Nicht press has for a whole month been flooding the country with a repetition of their evil, often repeated and as often refuted falsehoods and slanders in every issue. They have not yet had the courage to meet us in debate, the die-hard enemies, which were predicting the burning of the houses of foreigners on the night of the election. He makes this impression deliberately, intentionally, and maliciously.

Three or four times it has been arraigned and rebuked for it, but he persists in the repetition of the infamous crime. It is a crime which only the most abominable of men who has just gone to the penitentiary would seem to be guilty of. One such act, especially when repeated after its criminality has been brought to public notice, stamps a man's character as plainly and irreversibly as a thousand deeds of infamy could do. It is no better than forgery; it is a kind of forgery, and not one of the less criminal kinds either. The partisans of their party are the originators of these terrible disturbances of the public peace. They were completely overwhelmed with the effects of the Sag-Nicht slanders upon the American party, in regard to these occurrences, is already complete. The opinion of an intelligent and discriminating people is made up and cannot now be changed. No new facts can be adduced.

We have other and more important business on hand, with which our countrymen are daily engaged in the cause of American principles.

The triumphant election of our American candidates and the inglorious defeat of the motley conglomeration of foreigners and Papists, Administration toadies, disappointed office-seekers, and a few misguided and deeply-prejudiced natives, who are fiercely and desperately waging against the American party, demand our attention.

The Sag-Nicht party was powerless. Its leaders and bitterest partisans could no longer silently contain their wrath and malice. They hated every American, and every American they could see. They have been compelled to turn their friends even from their beds, which were not so malicious in their hatred of the American party as themselves. They brooded over their defeat until the desire for revenge fully assailed. The Sag-Nicht party was powerless. Its leaders and bitterest partisans could no longer silently contain their wrath and malice.

THURSDAY, MAY 1, 1 A. M.

RIVER AND STEAMBOAT MATTERS.

FROM CALIFORNIA AND OREGON.—The telegraph brings the news received by the steamer Illinois at New York. She had $2,000,000 gold. The intelligence from California is of importance. That from Oregon and Washington Territories is dreadful. The Indians were killed by whites by scores.

LOUISVILLE MANUFACTURES.—One of the finest stocks of housekeeping articles, such as stoves, tin-wares, refrigerators, water coolers, bath tubs, wardrobes, shower-baths, &c., is that kept by Mr. P. M. Jones, fourth street, between Main and Water. Mr. Jones is a reliable and temperate man, and the goods manufactured by him have improvements suggested by his own ingenuity, combining economy and excellence in finish. The warm weather is approaching and there will soon be a demand for refrigerators, water coolers, bath tubs, &c. Of these articles, Mr. Jones has a superior assortment. His supply of tin-ware is very large. We commend this house to the attention of housekeepers and dealers.

Officer Tiller arrested yesterday an Irishman and his wife, who have been guilty of many depredations. They had a room in the third story of one of the buildings in Court Place. Among her articles, the officers found a bolt of calico, which was stolen from the door of Mr. Clegg's store corner of Market and Fifth.

THE MOVING MIRROR.—This painting will be exhibited at the Mozart Hall every afternoon and night during the week. The afternoon exhibition commences at half past 2. The admission is only 10 cents.

We thank Mr. Oppenheimer, who turned from the East last evening, for files of the latest New York, Buffalo, and Cincinnati papers.

Friends of Adams' Express furnish us daily with Cincinnati papers in advance of the mail.

THEATRE.—Owens was inexpressibly funny last night. His wit will never forget him for making these laugh till their sides were sore. His Toodles was excellent, but his Hannibal was not. He is the most amiable and popular of our actors, and is greatly appreciated. We have seen an audience as universally pleased as that at the theater last night.

Mr. Owells will appear to-night as Amabilis Steel and Pauline. In both characters he is excellent.

An arrangement has been made with the city of Madison, by which she agrees to relinquish to the Madison and Indianapolis Railroad Company all her interest in the Columbus and Shelbyville Road, whenever the company shall secure to her the sum of $24,000. The city also consents that the company may, if it desires, take up, remove, and sell, for its own proper use and benefit, all the materials used in the construction of said road.

WE PUBLISH.—We publish in another column a letter from the St. Louis Democrat.

The St. Louis Democrat has several letters from Lawrence, which give the version of the free-state party. It seems that Jones, the sheriff, attempted to arrest several men in Lawrence, but was overpowered by their friends.

Mr. Briggs then rose and defended the action of the Naval Board, replying to the recent article of the Free Soil, in which he was accused of being the man who was interdicted, but did not rise at first, but, on being assured that it was so, stopped the engines, and then backed the boat. It had, however, gained so much headway that it was impossible to save the man. The captain was in the hold at the time the accident occurred.

The Ben Franklin.—Capt. McGill, of the David White, has taken command of this steamer until the White is raised and repaired.

Four Men Buried.—Four men were buried by the caving in of a coal bank, in Blue Rock, about twelve miles from Zanesville, Ohio, last Friday morning. It is supposed that they were still alive at a late hour, but that a great number of people were working hard to dig away the earth, and rescue, if possible, the unfortunate from their perilous situation. Great excitement prevailed in the neighboring towns.

The St. Louis Democrat has several letters from Lawrence, which give the version of the free-state party. It seems that Jones, the sheriff, attempted to arrest several men in Lawrence, but was overpowered by their friends.

Mr. Briggs then rose and defended the action of the Naval Board, replying to the recent article of the Free Soil, in which he was accused of being the man who was interdicted, but did not rise at first, but, on being assured that it was so, stopped the engines, and then backed the boat. It had, however, gained so much headway that it was impossible to save the man. The captain was in the hold at the time the accident occurred.
